Disgrifiad / Description

On behalf of the proprietors, Colonel Astor has presented the two parts of the fourth and final volume of The History of 'The Times' (Dept of Printed Books). The Library's set of the volumes of this magnificent work is now complete. Not only is it a historical document of the first importance, but it is also a monument of typographical excellence. The historical value of the work is enhanced by the use made of material additional to the archives of The Times Office. For example, use has been made of the Milne Papers at New College, the Asquith Papers at Balliol, and the Lloyd George and other papers in the possession of Lord Beaverbrook. The two parts between them run to over 1,000 pages and include long appendices and a most thorough index.

A copy of Jean Van Eyck et le Polyptyque: deux problemes resolus. Par Emile Renders (Bruxelles, 1950) (Dept of Pictures and Maps).

No. 1790 of an edition which is limited to 2,000 copies and which will never be repeated. It is a magnificently produced work in two quarto volumes. The first volume, printed in large type, consists of text in which the author claims to prove that the celebrated polyptych of the Holy Lamb on the altar of the Church of St Bavon in Ghent is entirely the work of Jan van Eyck, and was not, as has been generally accepted, begun by his brother Hubert and then completed by him. The author even maintains that Jan had no brother named Hubert. The second volume consists of beautiful plates in monochrome, those giving details of the painting being marked with the letters J or H according as they are, in the author's view, the work of Jan van Eyck or of his pretendu frere, as the author dubs Hubert. Study of these details, so the author maintains, reveals not two separate artists but two distinct periods in the evolution of one and the same artist, and that one Jan van Eyck.

Disgrifiad / Description

Five volumes of outstanding interest and value, consisting of two medieval manuscripts and three printed books.

The earlier of the two manuscripts, both of which are of great charm and beauty, is the 'Sherbrooke' Missal, a manuscript written in a stately hand of about 1310 and admirably decorated in the East Anglian style (NLW MS 15536E). There is no indication of its original home, but from the sixteenth century to the nineteenth it was the property of the Sherbrooke family. William Morris owned it later, and from his library it passed into the famous collection of Henry Yates Thompson in 1898. Additional offices written in the margin in a fifteenth century hand include those of SS David, Chad and Winifred. The other manuscript is the 'De Grey ' Book of Hours, a fine example of English illumination of the first half of the fifteenth century (NLW MS 15537C). It belonged to the De Grey family of Blisworth, Northamptonshire. A note opposite the Calendar refers to the death of Elizabeth Grey, wife of Sir John Grey of Blisworth. This Sir John Grey was a great-grandson of Reginald, third Baron de Grey of Ruthin, whose animosity towards Owain Glyn Dwr led to the latter's rising. This manuscript also was in the Yates Thompson collection.

Two of the printed books are famous in the history of printing (Dept of Printed Books). The earlier of the two is the edition of Jacopo da Voragine's Golden Legerd in Caxton's translation, printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1512. It is unfortunately imperfect, some leaves being missing, but it remains a handsome volume, finely bound as it is in rich brown Levant morocco, with gilt edges, and the back and sides blindtooled with a floral design. The other is a copy of the works of Geoffrey Chaucer produced by William Morris for the Kelmscott Press in 1896 - the book which is generally regarded as the highest achievement in the art and craft of modern printing. The third book presented is a copy of the 1577 Geneva edition of the English Bible (Dept of Printed Books).

A valuable collection of thirty-five works in single volumes and a collection of tracts in eleven composite volumes (Dept of Printed Books). The former consist mostly of eighteenth-century English works on a variety of topics, including numismatics, heraldry, history, and law, with a few examples of French and Italian literature. Of far greater interest are the composite volumes, containing as they do a representative collection of early eighteenth-century tracts dealing with the political and religious controversies of the time. The value of such tracts as sources for contemporary history was stressed when a similar donation by Lord Harlech was recorded in last year's Report. As was the case in the earlier collection, here again the tracts have generally been carefully assembled, so that tracts bearing on the same controversial issue are found together in the same volume. Many of these tracts, of course, were published anonymously, and some have remained anonymous to this day. But others are identified as the work of, among others, Richard Bentley, Anthony Collins, Daniel Defoe, Francis Hare, Richard Harley, Charles Povey, Jonathan Swift and John Wills or Willes.

Oltarz Krakowski. [The Altar of Cracow.] By Wit Stwos. Warsaw: Panstwowy Instytut Wydawniczy. 1951 (Dept of Pictures and Maps).

This finely produced work in a large folio volume is the first of a projected series of the works of the masters of Polish realistic art. The Polish introduction of twenty-nine pages discusses fully the history of Stwos (Stosz) and his place in Polish and European art. Stwos came to Cracow from Nuremberg about 1477, and with him realistic art in Poland reached its climax. The decoration of the altar of St

Mary's Church, Cracow, the largest Gothic altar in Europe, is his highest achievement. The scenes depicted on the altar are based on the Tree of Jesse and show incidents from the lives of Christ and the Virgin Mary. The introduction gives reasons for assuming that both the polychrome painting and the sculpture are equally the work of Stwosz. The 141 plates, many of them in colour, are meant not only to illustrate the artist's conception of the leading figures but also to give examples of his mastery over detail.

The Thorkelin transcripts of Beowulf in facsimile. Edited by Kemp Malone. Copenhagen, 1951 (Dept of Printed Books).

The first volume in a projected series of facsimile reproductions of Early English manuscripts. The publishers, Rosenkilde and Bagger, of Copenhagen, have the co-operation of Allen and Unwin in Great Britain and of the John Hopkins Press in the USA. The editorial board also is international. The two manuscripts of Beowulf here reproduced are copies made in 1786 by Thorkelin, the Danish scholar, of the British Museum manuscript, the only one extant, though itself much damaged by fire in 1731. The express purpose of this series is to multiply exact copies of original documents so as to ensure a greater chance of their survival in the event of war.

Alberti Magni. . . De bono. Primum ediderunt H. Kuhle, C. Feckes, B. Geyer, W. Kubel. Monasterii Westfalarum: In Aedibus Aschendorff, 1951 (Dept of Printed Books).

Although it is numbered 28 this is the first volume to appear of a new critical edition, in forty volumes, of the works of Albertus Magnus (1193-1280), the 'Doctor Universalis' of the Middle Ages, whose lectures in Cologne were attended by St Thomas Aquinas. Work on this edition has been in progress since 1931, when the Albert-the-Great Institute was established in Cologne by Cardinal Schultze. Although it was well known to scholars, this is the first time that the treatise De Bono has been printed. It now appears in a critical and definitive text, and in a form which is an achievement in book production. The title-page especially, with its clear lettering in red and black, will deserve to be reckoned among the best examples of the art of modern fine printing.

Sacris Erudiri: jaarboek voor Godsdienstwetenschappen (Dept of Printed Books).

This new periodical, which started in 1948 and of which four volumes have now appeared, is published by the community of St. Pietersabdij, Steenbrugge. It is devoted to the study of early Christian literature in Greek and Latin. The articles are written in Dutch, French and English, with a Latin summary in each case. In the first volume appears an article in English stressing the need of a new corpus of Christian texts to supplant Migne's Patrology which is generally regarded as unsatisfactory. The third volume contains a bibliography of critical editions of Christian texts which have appeared since the publication of Migne's work, and which can be utilised in the Corpus Christianorum as it is proposed to name the new collection.

Buchreihe der Anglia, Zeitschrift für Englische Philologie. Bd. 1. John Lydgate: ein Kulturbild aus den 15. Jahrhundert. By W. F. Schirmes. (Tubingen: Niemeyer, 1952) (Dept of Printed Books).

The Library was already subscribing to Anglia as well as to its supplementary Beiblatt. This first volume of a new series of monographs published under the auspices of the same journal treats Lydgate as standing at the end of the period of decline of English literature that set in after Chaucer's time, and at the beginning of the period which culminated in Shakespeare. Particular attention is paid to his cultural background as a monk at the Abbey of Bury St Edmunds.

Disgrifiad / Description

A further large group of manuscript volumes, deeds, correspondence, miscellaneous documents and papers, with some maps and plans, relating to the Wynnstay family and its estates and supplementing the groups deposited in 1933 and 1940 (see Annual Report, 1933-4, pp. 46-7, and 1940-1, p. 29, and The National Library of Wales Journal, II, pp. 26-32).

1. MANUSCRIPT VOLUMES. Over 500 volumes including:

(a) Rentals of the Wynnstay estates (1629-1899); farm and cottage receiving rentals (1863-1919); tithe, chief and fee-farm rentals (1863-1919); Llangedwyn estate rentals (1878-1911).

(b) Cash books, ledgers, account and receipt books, including receipt books of William Williams, Esq., and of Sir John Wynn, (1710-40); household accounts (1779-81 and 1855-7); a tradesmen's time book (1856-7); accounts relating to charities (1861-1905); cash books (1865-95); estate payments (1866-1911); Wynnstay Home Farm accounts (1892-1905); Llangedwyn cash books and ledgers (1898-1911); ledgers (1900-19); rent audit books (1901-25); Wynnstay office accounts (1905-11); receipt books (1909-19); Wynnstay estate accounts (1911-19).

(c) Four volumes of surveys with maps:- 'A survey and valuation of the Wynnstay estates in Cyfeiliog and Mallwyd by J. Probert' (1763); 'A survey and particular of the Wynnstay estates in Llanfihangel' (Mont.) (1817); 'A survey and particular of the Wynnstay estates in Llanfyllin, Meifod, Llansantffraed and Llanfechan' (1817); maps of farms in the parishes of Llangadfan and Garthbeibio.

(d) Four volumes containing accounts of royalties received from lead mines and slate quarries (1868-91).

(e) A volume containing some Shropshire colliery accounts (1816-17).

(f) Three court leet books for the manor of Cyfeiliog (1820-42).

(g) Inventories of household goods and furniture at Wynnstay (1749-90); three volumes containing pedigrees.

(h) Upwards of eighty files of vouchers covering the last three decades of the nineteenth century, together with an index in forty-eight volumes.

II. DEEDS. A collection of several thousand deeds dating from the early fourteenth century. They relate mainly to the six North Wales counties, especially to Denbighshire, Merioneth and Montgomeryshire, and to Shropshire.

III. LEGAL PAPERS. These belong mainly to the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries and consist largely of bills, answers, depositions, and briefs of cases conducted in Chancery and in the Court of Wards, several of the actions being concerned with the estates of Sir Robert Vaughan (d. 1624) and of Edward Vaughan of Llwydiarth.

IV. VOUCHERS AND CORRESPONDENCE. There is a large number of vouchers for the period 1768-83 including receipts signed by Sir Joshua Reynolds and Richard Wilson and vouchers for work done on the Wynnstay playhouse (1782). In addition to correspondence dealing with estate matters there is for 1641-1736 and 1717-1813 a number of letters of historical and social interest.

V. MANORIAL RECORDS. These, dating from the sixteenth to the nineteenth century, relate mainly to the manor of Much Wenlock and include rentals, surveys, suit-rolls and presentments (1788-1857). There are also occasional items relating to other manors, e.g. a court roll of the College of St. Peter, Ruthin (1563-69); a court roll of the lordship of Ruthin (1564), and presentments for Valle Crucis, Wrexham Abbot, and Stansty (1791-5).

VI. MISCELLANEOUS DOCUMENTS. There remains a considerable group of miscellaneous papers and documents which have not been examined in detail, dealing with public affairs and offices as well as with estate matters. These date mainly from the middle of the sixteenth century. The following chronological list gives some indication of their scope and range:- a charter granted to Llanrwst (1424); a quietus for the revenue of Valle Crucis (1572-3); an inquisition post mortem on the estate of John Salesbury with a valor of the Rûg estate (1581); an inquisition concerning Prysor ffridd in Merioneth and Denbighshire (1590); the Receiver-General's accounts for North Wales (1591-2); The Rules and Statutes of Christ's Hospital, Corwen (1599); pedigree rolls in Welsh (late sixteenth century); a survey of the town of Ruthin (seventeenth century); a Denbighshire sheriff's accounts (1603-4); surveys of crown lands in Caernarvonshire (1608-42); orders and rules of Llanrwst hospital (1611-12, copy); an order of the Court of the Council in the Marches of Wales regarding a riot at Llysfaen wherein a fine of 1,000 marks was levied on Sir John Wynn (1615); a survey of Bromfield and Yale (1620, copy dated 1666); estreats of Merioneth Quarter Sessions (1624-6); an inventory of the personal estate of Sir John Wynn (1627-8); appointment of Sir Richard Wynn as Treasurer and Receiver-General (1629); Sir Richard Wynn's commission as Master of the Court of Wards (1634); papers and pamphlets relating to Irish affairs including the 'Adventurers' (1838-68); papers relating to the sequestration of the Llwydiarth estate of Edward Vaughan and to legal proceedings against Vaughan and Devereux, including material relating to Civil War incidents in Montgomeryshire (1640-54); articles preferred against Edmund Hall, Rector of Llansantffraid (1646); patent, accounts, bonds, and correspondence of Watkin Kyffin, Sheriff of Montgomeryshire and Denbighshire (1657-66); appointment of Edward Herbert of Chirbury as quarter master of a troop of horse (1660); the commission of John Pursell as militia captain in Montgomeryshire (1662); a record of a forcible entry at Llwydiarth (1667); papers and printed matter relating to the Court of the Council in the Marches of Wales (1675-90); drafts and minutes of speeches against the repeal of the Test Acts (1675); papers relating to the case against Lord Arundell, agent and nuncio for the Pope, together with the evidence and testimony of Mr Oates (?1678); papers relating to Parliamentary elections in Montgomeryshire (1678-1727); a memorial and petition against the oppression of Lord Viscount Bulkeley and the destruction of Beaumaris Castle (1708-9); minutes of evidence on charitable corporations (1732); papers and correspondence relating to turnpike securities (1773-1850); a report on lead mines on Ruabon Mountain (1814); a report on lead mines on the Wynnstay estate (1871-2); copies of enclosure acts, railway bills, and maps and plans of railways in North and Central Wales (nineteenth century).
